

Preface

The Linguistics Circle at the University of Arizona is pleased to present Volume 8 of the continuing series of the Coyote Papers, our working papers in Linguistics. This volume includes papers from both faculty and students. The students' papers are comprised of third year Preliminary Papers and second year Qualifying Papers. The papers deal with different theoretical issues within the areas of Phonology, Morphology, Language Acquisition, and GB Syntax.

We would like to thank all our fellow students in the Linguistics department for their encouragement and support. Special thanks are in order for Elizabeth Dyckman and Rosemary Emery for letting us use the department's laser printer, and for their patience. For financial support, we thank the Associated Students of the University of Arizona. Thanks also to all the contributors who have made this volume possible, and to Laura Conway and Pat "Patep" Pérez for their work on the cover. Finally, thanks to Martin Wilkens, who just likes to be thanked.
