

TREE-RING SOCIETY

At a meeting of the Tree-Ring Society, held during the Second International Workshop on Global Dendroclimatology (Norwich, U.K., 1980), it was voted to formalize the peer review structure of the Tree-Ring Bulletin. Consequently, a review committee was established, under the chairmanship of the editor, consisting of J. R. Pilcher, The Queen's University of Belfast; D. Eckstein, Universitat Hamburg; J. Ogden, University of Auckland; and G. Jacoby, Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory. This committee will provide some reviews itself and will serve to guide the editor in the matter of additional reviewers within the Society.

This volume of the Bulletin also initiates a series of Research Reports. These reports are generally not suitable for full review due to their nature and are intended to present interim records of ongoing research or provocative new ideas or applications. Thus they are intended to generate interaction between author and reader in common interest areas of dendrochronology. They are not intended to present final research results.
