GENERAL INFORMATION

THE UNIVERSITY

The University of Arizona, situated at Tucson, is an integral part of the system of public education established by and for the state. Its purpose, in the language of the organic law, is "to provide the inhabitants of this state with the means of acquiring a thorough knowledge of the various branches of literature, science and the arts," and, in so far as possible, a technical education adapted to the development of the resources peculiar to Arizona. In furtherance of this purpose, the College of Agriculture, the School of Home Economics, the Agricultural Experiment Station, the Agricultural Extension Service, the College of Education, the College of Engineering, the College of Law, the College of Liberal Arts, the College of Pharmacy, the College of Business and Public Administration, the College of Fine Arts, the School of Music, the Graduate College, the College of Mines, the Arizona Bureau of Mines, the University Extension Division, the State Museum, the Engineering Experimental Station, the Laboratory of Tree Ring Research, the Bureau of Business Research, the Bureau of Ethnic Research, the Institute of Atmospheric Physics, and the Steward Observatory have been organized. In creating the University the Legislative Assembly wisely unified under one management these various colleges and institutions of higher learning and investigation.

The general organization of the University is in accordance with the Act of Congress of July 2, 1862, known as the Morrill Act, creating the "Land Grant Colleges." The details of its organization and government are regulated by the act of the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Arizona, passed in 1885, and subsequent acts of the Legislature.

The University of Arizona is on the accredited list of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools as a degree-granting institution, and on the list of approved colleges of the Association of American Universities.

COLLEGE OF LAW

The University of Arizona College of Law is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and is designated by the American Bar Association as a fully approved school on the basis of the following pronouncement:

The American Bar Association is of the opinion that every candidate for admission to the bar should give evidence of graduation from a law school complying with the following standards:

It shall require as a condition to admission at least 3 years of acceptable college work.

It shall require its students to pursue a course of 3 years' duration, if they devote substantially all of their working time to their studies, and a longer course, equivalent in the number of working hours, if they devote only part of their working time to their studies.

It shall provide an adequate library available for the use of the students.

It shall have among its teachers a sufficient number giving their entire time to the school to insure personal acquaintance and influence with the whole student body.

It shall not be operated as a commercial enterprise.

It shall be a school which in the judgment of the Council of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar possesses reasonably adequate facilities and maintains a sound educational policy.

The Law Building, a structure of red brick and Bedford limestone, contains classrooms, a modern courtroom, faculty offices and conference rooms, a commodious reading and study room, and ample stack room space in which is housed the Law Library.

The Law Library contains approximately 30,000 bound volumes. Included are the reported cases of all the jurisdictions in the United States and substantially all of the English reported cases, American and English statutory law, complete sets of the leading legal periodicals, and a carefully selected collection of legal encyclopedias, digests, treatises, and textbooks.

ADMISSION

Students applying for admission to the College of Law must present to the Dean of the College a certificate of the University Registrar certifying that the applicant has completed all prelegal requirements.

Students commencing the study of law will be admitted to the College of Law only at the beginning of the fall semester. Those who have completed satisfactorily 1 full semester or more of law study in the University of Arizona or in some other approved law school may enter at the beginning of either semester.

Candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Laws must have completed in residence, at the University of Arizona or at some other college or university whose credit is given "full value" in the Annual Report compiled by the American Association of Collegiate Registrars, not less than three-fourths of the work required for a bachelor's degree granted on the basis of a 4-year period of study.

Nontheory courses in military science, hygiene, domestic arts, physical education, vocal or instrumental music, practice teaching, teaching methods and techniques, and other courses without substantive content appropriate to the study of law, may not be included in the credits presented for admission to the College of Law, except that "required" nontheory work may be accepted up to 10 per cent of the total credit offered for admission.

All such prelegal work, exclusive of nontheory courses, must have been completed with an average of 3.0000 (C) or better and a scholastic average at least equal to the average required for graduation in the institution attended. If more than one institution has been attended the scholastic requirements of the last institution are applied, but based upon the entire prelegal work, exclusive of nontheory credit, undertaken in all the institutions attended.

Students desiring to be admitted to the College of Law should have their applications, together with a transcript of their prelegal work, in the hands of the University Registrar not later than July 15 for first-semester registration. Students completing their prelegal work in some other college or university must furnish the University Registrar, in addition to a transcript of their record, with a certificate from the registrar of the institution where such work was completed to the effect that the grade average attained is at least equal to the average required for graduation in that institution.

At the time of admission to the College of Law, a written statement as to previous attendance at, and applications for admission to other law schools will be required by the Dean of the College.

PRELEGAL STUDIES

It is suggested that prelaw students select their elective subjects from amongst courses open to them in economics, mathematics, sociology, political science, English, speech, foreign language, history, philosophy, and psychology. Facility in English is essential to the successful study or practice of law, and an elementary knowledge of accounting is desirable.

Credit earned through correspondence or by examination is not acceptable as prelegal credit. Credit earned by extension is acceptable only when the courses have been conducted in regular class sessions, by and under the personal supervision of members of the instructional staff of an accredited college or university in which the candidate was at the time a regularly enrolled student.

LAW SCHOOL ADMISSION TEST

All applicants for admission as beginning law students must take the Law School Admission Test given by the Educational Testing Service in co-operation with leading law schools throughout the country. Test scores are not a criterion for admission but are required for informational and counseling purposes. The requirement of the test as a prerequisite for admission may be waived for good cause, but in such case it must be taken at the first opportunity after enrolling.

The test is given several times each year, at the University of Arizona and at other centers throughout the United States. Requests for application forms should be made directly to: Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey. A fee of $10 will be required with the application.

SPECIAL STUDENTS

A limited number of students with fewer than the academic credits required for candidates for the law degree may be admitted as special students. An applicant for admission as a special student must be at least 23 years of age, and his experience and educational training must have been such, in the judgment of the Law Faculty, as to have specially equipped him for the successful study of law. The number of special students admitted to the College of Law each year is limited to 10 per cent of the average number of students admitted by the College of Law as beginning regular students during the 2 preceding academic years. Application for admission as a special student must be made to the Registrar of the University well in advance of the beginning of the regular academic year for the purpose of submission to the Dean of the College of Law. Such applications will be considered and acted upon at the first meeting of the Law Faculty after September 1 of each year. Special students are not candidates for the law degree, and upon completion of their law study are not eligible for bar examinations in Arizona nor in such other states as require graduation from a law school approved by the American Bar Association as a prerequisite for bar admission.

ADMISSION TO ADVANCED STANDING

A student transferring to the College of Law of the University of Arizona will not be given credit toward the law degree for courses of law pursued in another American law school which at the time the credit was earned was not a member of the Association of American Law Schools or approved or provisionally approved by the American Bar Association; provided, however, that credit may be given for work taken in an American law school within three calendar years immediately preceding its provisional approval by the American Bar Association.

A student transferring from a law school which is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and approved or provisionally approved by the American Bar Association will be given credit toward the law degree for courses of study satisfactorily pursued in such law school with allowance for proper equation of credit.

A transferring student must present:

1. An official transcript of his prelegal course of study, which must be sufficient to meet the requirements for admission to the College of Law of the University of Arizona.
2. An official transcript of his law study.
3. A letter from the dean of the law school from which he transfers to the effect that he is presently eligible to register in that law school.

Admission will not be granted to a student who has been disqualified or placed on probation in another law school, or who has an average of less than 3.0000 (C) in all law work previously attempted. The number of units in a barely passing grade credited to students admitted to advanced standing may not exceed 20 per cent of the total number of units presented.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE BACHELOR OF LAWS DEGREE

To secure the degree in law from the University of Arizona, a candidate for such degree must:

1. Have met fully all prelegal requirements established by the University of Arizona for the admission to its College of Law of students as candidates for the law degree.
2. Have completed at least 3 full academic years in residence study of law in accredited law schools. When part of such study has been done in other schools, the work of the third or last year, comprising not less than 24 units of law credit, must have been done in residence in this University.
3. Have secured by and during such 3 or more years of residence study not less than 80 units of credit in law courses, including the courses designated below as "Required," with a grade average of at least 3.0000 (C) in all law courses undertaken. In this regard, a student who takes the combined course of study as described on page 9 will be deemed to have transferred to the College of Law when he starts the fourth year of such course.
4. "Completed . . . in residence study" means that a student has registered for a schedule of work represented by a minimum of 10 class hours per week. But in case a student fails to pass work equal to 9 class hours per week, he shall not receive "residence credit" in excess of the ratio that the hours passed bear to nine. A student enrolled in a schedule of less than 10 class hours a week shall receive "residence credit" in the ratio that the hours passed bear to ten.

COMBINED COURSES OF STUDY

The University offers combined courses leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, or Bachelor of Science in Business Administration, and to the degree of Bachelor of Laws, in 6 years. Prelegal students who wish to pursue such a course are referred to the requirements outlined for the College of Liberal Arts and the College of Business and Public Administration in the University Catalogue.

Students in certain other colleges may be candidates for degrees awarded upon completion of similar combined 6-year programs upon meeting equivalent requirements and upon petition to and approval by the faculties of their respective colleges and the College of Law.

*Prerequisites: Law 101, 128, 141, 146 and 184.

Students transferring from other institutions may not register for the elective work in law under a combined program without first meeting the residence requirement of 30 units of prelegal credit in the University of Arizona.

In order to qualify for the law degree students who are registered in the combined course must meet all the requirements of the College of Law in effect at the time they start their law study, or for the year of graduation from the College of Law. The grade average of 3.0000 or better exacted for the law degree applies to all law credit, including the law courses taken during the fourth year of the combined course.

REGULATIONS AFFECTING STUDENTS

Grading System

The grades awarded in the courses of study are given on a basis of relative position in a series. These grades are: 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5. Grades 1 to 4 indicate different ranks of passing work; grade 5 indicates failure. Inc., incomplete, is used to indicate deferred grading because of illness or other accepted reasons, a deficiency that may be made up within 1 year at the convenience of the instructor. W is used to indicate satisfactory work at time of approved withdrawal. The right to withdraw from law courses with the grade of W is limited to the first six weeks of classes; thereafter this grade will be awarded only for good cause approved by the faculty.

Minimum Scholarship Requirements

University regulations provide that, to be in good standing, all students above freshman rank are required to carry with a passing grade more than 60 per cent of the work for which they are registered. Failure to meet this requirement automatically places the student on probation, but after a review of his case by the dean of his college, and upon approval by the Advisory Council, he may be disqualified.

In addition to the foregoing University regulations, the following rules apply to students entering the College of Law in or after September, 1955, including those registered for law course work under combined programs with other colleges of the University.

A student who fails to maintain a cumulative grade average of 3.0000, or better, for all law work attempted will be placed on probation. A student on probation for scholastic reasons will be disqualified at the end of the semester unless he then has the following cumulative grade average, or better: 3.3000, if he has completed at least 22 but less than 50 units of law work; 3.1500 if he has completed 50 or more units of such work. For this purpose a student shall be deemed to have "completed" all law courses in which he has been awarded a grade other than W or Inc.

A student disqualified for scholastic reasons, whether under these rules or under the general University regulations, may be readmitted only as follows: At the next regular examination period for such courses, he may take re-examinations in any courses in which he has received a grade of less than 3. If by substituting his grades upon re-examination for his original grades in those courses he would have the cumulative grade average required for his class standing as above provided, he shall be entitled to re-enter on probation. Grades obtained upon re-examination will be considered solely for the purpose of determining the student's right to re-enter following a particular disqualification, and will not be entered upon his official record, nor affect the computation of his grade average for any other purpose. A student on re-examination must fulfill the requirements of the current examination in the course even though its content may have been changed.

Probation shall involve such limitations and requirements as the faculty or the Dean may prescribe, including limitations as to courses, credit hours and outside employment, and requirements as to regular class attendance and adequate preparation. A semester, as used herein, means either the regular fall semester, the regular spring semester, or if summer session is attended, then such summer session plus the next regular semester attended.

Credit Hours and Attendance

A student may not register for more than 15 credit hours. Those finding it necessary to take outside employment for self-support while pursuing their law studies must reduce their course load proportionately.

Regular attendance at classes and thorough preparation of all assigned work is required. A student may be disqualified at any time for neglect of his academic duties.

Tuition and Fees

(The Board of Regents reserves the right to change any fees and charges from time to time without notice if necessary.)

Matriculation fees.—All students registering for 6 units or more are required to pay a registration fee of $15, a student activity fee of $8.75, a health service fee of $4, a library fee of $2, a University Series fee of $1.25, a Student Union fee of $7.50, and an Alumni Association fee of $1.25, each semester.

Law College fee.—All students registering for 6 units or more of law are required to pay a fee of $25 each semester in addition to other fees. Students registering for 5 units or less of law are required to pay a fee of $5 per unit each semester in addition to other fees.

Nonresident tuition fee.—Every nonresident student carrying 12 or more units shall be required to pay a nonresident fee of $175.00 each semester. Those carrying less than 12 units will pay a nonresident fee of $15.00 per unit.

Late registration.—Students who fail to appear for the purpose of registering on the day scheduled for registration and students who fail to complete registration by payment of all fees during the week of the opening of classes are charged a late registration fee of $5.

Change of registration.—For any change in registration other than withdrawal with a failing grade, a fee of $1 will be charged. This fee is effective the first day after the close of registration as scheduled.

Late petition for degree.—For petition for candidacy for a degree filed after May 1 of the second year of law (provided such second year has been the year immediately preceding that in which graduation is desired) a fee of $2 will be charged.

Graduation fee.—Every candidate for a degree is required to pay a $5 diploma charge, and the balance, if any, of his Alumni Association Life Membership dues of $10. Credit is allowed against such dues at the rate of $1.25 for each semester for which the Alumni Association fee has been paid.

Graduation in absentia.—Candidates upon whom degrees are to be conferred are expected to be present in the Commencement procession, unless especially excused by their deans. Candidates who complete degree requirements in residence at the end of the second semester and who absent themselves without this approval will be required to pay a fee of $10 before the diploma will be issued or graduation certified.

Housing Accommodations

Residence halls.—In assigning residence in dormitories preference is given to legal residents of Arizona who are registered for a substantial course load. A considerable number of accommodations are available each year, however, to out-of-state students.

Reservation of dormitory rooms.—Application for the reservation of a dormitory room should be made to the University Department of Student Housing immediately upon the receipt of notification from the Registrar that admission has been granted. Since the accommodations are limited and all the rooms are usually engaged before the opening of the college year, students should make early application. A deposit of $10 must accompany each application, to apply as security against damage to or loss of University property. This deposit is refunded when a student leaves the dormitory, provided all such charges have been paid.

Housing for married veterans.—A limited number of Quonset huts and temporary dwelling units are available for married veterans who are enrolled for 8 or more credit hours of law work. These may be rented furnished or unfurnished at rates of $22 to $29 per month. More detailed information may be obtained from the University Department of Student Housing.

Residence off the campus.—A list of off-campus accommodations may be obtained at the University Department of Student Housing. It is recommended that these accommodations be inspected personally by students before definite arrangements are made with landlords.

PRIZES AND AWARDS

Tucson Title Insurance Company award.—The Tucson Title Insurance Company offers an annual award of $250.00 to the third-year law student, resident of the state, registered in the College of Law, who, in the judgment of the law faculty, has excelled in activities, leadership, personality, professional attributes and scholarship in the College of Law during the two preceding years and accumulated not less than 50 units of law credit.

Nathan Burkan memorial competition.—The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers offers annually a first prize of $150 and a second prize of $50 to those members of the graduating class of the College of Law who submit the best papers on some aspect of the subject of copyright law.

Lawyers Title award.—The Lawyers Title Insurance Corporation annually awards an appropriate certificate and $100 to a third-year law student for excellence in the law of real estate.

Pima County Bar Auxiliary scholarship.—The Pima County Bar Auxiliary awards annually a scholarship of $50 to a deserving third-year law student. The scholarship is intended to defray the special law registration fee, and is open to Arizona residents, with preference given to graduates of Pima County high schools.

United States Law Week award.—The Bureau of National Affairs offers an annual award of the value of $90, and consisting of a year's subscription to The United States Law Week, to the student in the College of Law who makes the greatest scholastic improvement during his third year.

Fegtly Moot Court award.—The Student Bar Association of the College of Law has given a plaque, on which will be engraved each year the names of the two students paired in the third-year law class who win first in the Fegtly Moot Court competition.

Daily Reporter prizes.—The Daily Reporter annually awards appropriate book prizes to the members of the two ranking teams in the first- and second-year Fegtly Moot Court competition.

American Jurisprudence prizes.—The joint publishers of American Jurisprudence award bound subjects each semester to the law students receiving the highest grades in selected courses.

Phi Alpha Delta award.—The Knox Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta, Law Fraternity, has given a cup on which is to be inscribed each year the name of the winner of the Phi Alpha Delta Speech Contest.

Phi Delta Phi scholarship award.—The Samuel L. Pattee Inn, the University of Arizona Chapter of the International Legal Fraternity, Phi Delta Phi, in order to promote scholarly attainment, has given a plaque on which will be engraved each year the name of the graduating senior who has the highest scholarship average for the full 3 years of his law course, at least 1 year of which must have been completed at the University of Arizona.

There are other prizes, awards and scholarships in the University for which students in the College of Law may be eligible. These are listed in the Biennial Catalogue.
