

Editorial Forward

| | |
|---------------|---|
| Item Type | Article; text |
| Citation | 40 Ariz. J. Int'l & Comp. L. xiv (2023) |
| Publisher | The University of Arizona James E. Rogers College of Law (Tucson, AZ) |
| Journal | Arizona Journal of International and Comparative Law |
| Rights | Copyright © The Author(s) |
| Download date | 08/09/2023 01:07:55 |
| Item License | http://rightsstatements.org/vocab/InC/1.0/ |
| Link to Item | http://hdl.handle.net/10150/669701 |

EDITORIAL FOREWORD

On behalf of the Arizona Journal of International & Comparative Law, I am proud to present this the first issue of Volume 40 of the Journal. I want to thank each member of the editorial board and each staff writer for the countless hours spent checking citations and editing to make this issue possible. This issue contains two articles and two student notes. In the first article, Professor Dongsheng Zang explores the creation of what he terms the “symbiotic model of surveillance states” in the United States and abroad. In the second article, Professor Shamsad Pasarlay traces the history of constitution making in Afghanistan. In the first note, Andrew Donnellan compares the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) with the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (ADOA) and discusses changes to the ADA based on recommendations from the ADOA. Finally, in the second note, Brendan Cotta compares data sharing regimes between the United States and the United Kingdom and explains the impacts these differences have on precision oncology research being conducted in these countries.

Thank you for continued support of the Arizona Journal of International and Comparative Law. I hope that you find this issue interesting and illuminating.

Erin M. Weaver
Editor-in-Chief, 2022–2023

